Prelate Heartily Approves In augural-Socialism in Italy Gets Setback.

Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes returned esterday on the steamship Patria of the Fabre Line, after an extended visit to Rome, where he was received by the Pope, to whom he presented reports covering the activities of the diocese, and particularly the work of the Catholic chaplains in the American Army during the world war. In a statement issued after his arrival Archbishop Hayes denied that he had been consulted by the Pope on the Irish question. He declared that the question was not under discussion, either officially or unofficially, and said that the Vatican was following a policy of neutrality and impartiality in this, as in other similar matters. to Rome, where he was received by the matters.

"After reading the forceful unterances of the bishops of Ireland, who have the right to speak on the subject." said the Archbishop, "it would be indelicate for an American bishop to interfere outside of his own diocese."

The Patria encountered stormy weather almost as soon as she left Naples. It continued until the ship ran into a heavy fog bank outside of New York. She arrived off Sandy Hook on Monday night, but it was not until yesterday that the

She was delayed at Quarantine for an examination of the passengers by the Health officers, and Archbishop Hayes and his party, which included Mgr. Joseph P. Dineen, the Rev. Stephen Donohus, the Rev. Vincenzo Arcese and the Rev. John B. Kelly, were brought to Manhattan on the police boat John F. Hylan. A welcoming committee of clergymen and laymen met them at the piler.

Archishop Hayes in his statement said that his visit to Europe had filled him with the hope that some international policy will be adopted by the United States in accordance with the soundest and most integral American soundest and most integral American principles, without entangling and selfish alliances, such a policy as will enable this country to do the things that she can do toward international arbitration, wise disarmament, social justice and sconomic righteousness.

"I read with keen satisfaction," he said, "the radio at sea quoting President Harding's inaugural address in regard to America's friendly attitude toward all mankind. Fervently do I pray that our Chief Magistrate's Administration inay be blessed by God with the light of wisdom, the strength of courage, the sense of justice and the breadth of bumanity so much yearned for on the new and strange day that had dawned upon the world."

The Archbishop said that social and living conditions in Italy are not as discouraging as might be thought from some published reports.

"There is much unrest, it is true." he said, "but a most encouraging sign is the strong conservation that has made itself manifest in the formation of a new party opposed to socialism, which is being branded as disjoyal to the country. I am convinced that Italy will be found among the world's conservative builders in the reconstruction period that must now soon come."

After he had reached his home in Madlson avenue Archbishop Hayes announced the creation of three Knights of St. Gregory and four new Monsignors for the New York diocese. The Knights are George J. Gillespie, an attorney: George McDonaid, a financier, and Thomas Farrell a coal dealer. The new Monsignors are the Rev. William Livingston of St. Gabriel Church, the Rev. ACQUIT HETTRICK AND AIDS IN SECOND CASE

Justice Decides First Conviction Was on Same Charge.

Soon after Kenneth M. Spence, special prosecutor, had announced yesterday that he had concluded the presentation of evidence against John T. Hettrick and others on trial on charges of violating the State anti-trust law in connection with the operations of the Hettrick ring of master plumbers, Supreme Court Justice John V. McAvoy directed the jury to acquit Hettrick and two of his co-defendants, William H.

Chapman and William J. Doran.
This was done upon the ground that Hettrick Doran and Chapman had been tried recently and convicted in the same court upon substantially the same charge and that their liberty could not be placed again in jeonardy for this oftion of evidence against John T. Hetand that their liberty could not be placed again in jeopardy for this of-fence. The Court's ruling, made after Robert H Elder and Nathaniel Cohen, attorneys for the three defendants, had moved a dismissal, does not affect the sentence imposed recently upon the in the other case.

Neither does it affect the status the case as it stands against the other defendants on rival. defendants on trial—John L. Knight Charles A. Murphy, Frank J. Fee and the firm of Wells & Newton, who were members of Hettrick's combine and the Master Plumbers Association. The at torneys for these defendants obtaines will to day to make their motions for watil to-day to make their motions for a dismissal of the charges.
